

ANNOUNCING BEEP KICKBALL
A NEW SPORT FOR VISUALLY IMPAIRED KIDS

Beep kickball is played almost like beep baseball except it uses a 10” foam beeping kickball. Simply explained, it is played on a baseball diamond with just 2 bases, first and third, no pitcher, no throwing the ball and 2 teams of 6 players each. Everyone wears a blindfold to level the playing field. The kicker kicks the ball and runs to the base that buzzes. If he gets there before the fielders pick up the ball, he scores a run. If not, he’s out. Three outs, 6 innings, game over! This game can be modified anyway that will work for your group!

Beep kickball has been played as an after school activity at The Georgia Academy for the Blind and The South Carolina School for the Deaf and Blind.

This game could be played in public schools as an after school activity with 6 sighted and 6 visually impaired players since all players would be blindfolded during play. This would work quite well in achieving our ultimate goal of visually impaired and sighted kids playing together!
